

ms
B4

An image processing input apparatus for taking object, a reproducing
which the taken image illuminating environment in which the image is image of the object by rotating under the set apparatus for displaying image.

100
B44
An image processing apparatus comprises an image input apparatus for taking in an image including an object, a reproducing environment converting unit, to which the taken image is input, for setting desired illuminating environment on a monitor display screen in which the image is reproduced, and converting the image of the object by three-dimensionally moving and rotating under the set environment; and an image output apparatus for displaying and printing the converted image.